Next week is the final week of the spring term. We will be enjoying our usual egg decorating, celebrating Autism Awareness and the week will end with 'Dress to Express Day', where children can come to school wearing something that shows their personality (non-uniform). Have a lovely weekend! ☺

Online Safety for Children

As a school, we do all we can to keep children safe whilst using the internet, and through our curriculum we give them knowledge and skills to help keep themselves safe and build digital resilience. However, we cannot do it without your support at home too, we really appreciate you working with us and reinforcing these messages and skills at home.

We all want the best for children and it's really important that children are protected from unsuitable online content. The digital world became a huge part of our lives during the lockdowns and it is important to acknowledge how many positives there are to our digital lives but it is also important to have a healthy balance between screen time and other activities.

We strongly recommend that you adhere to the age restrictions on games, social media apps and sites.

There is a reason for these age limits and it is always better to wait until the required age to access these sites/games. Children risk being exposed to content which is intended for older users when they use sites that are not designed for people their age and any adverts that pop up are also age-related to the game/app. For any game where contact is made with others, please remember that your child can be exposed to unwanted or unpleasant messages and content and privacy settings are essential, making sure your child isn't sharing more information than they intend to.

National Online Safety has a wealth of information and safety tips for parents, about a wide range of apps and social media sites. Follow them on Twitter @natonlinesafety .
